

David Pace- MGSS

My specialities are Food Science and Sustainability. I have worked on producing new Maltese culinary products such as cheeselets but did most of my work on sustainability abroad in Albania, Macedonia and Sicily. I am currently also aiding the Dingli Local Council with its Sustainability Project 2020 and have worked on detailing a sustainable tourism trail for the area.

In September 2013, I was awarded an MGSS scholarship and successfully completed a three-year course in Food Safety Management culminating in the conferring of an M. Sc from the University of Central Lancashire. I currently lecture on food science, technology and sustainability at the Institute of Tourism Studies.
